Costly shampoo latest DepEd controversy

AFTER BRUSH-FILLED BODIES AND smeared washes came early in the shampoos of the Department of Education (DepEd).

A party-list lawmaker has questioned the DepEd's purchase of low-costing shampoos for students, saying the chosen products were more expensive than others made available on the market.

LINGAYEN, PANGASINAN—Angry mayors yesterday called for the decommissioning of the San Roque Dam, fearing its location near a fault line raised the possibility that it could collapse during an earthquake and wipe out Pangasinan.

"San Roque Dam is near a fault line in Nueva Vizcaya. What will be the scenario when it lands? In Unlauna, water will be 30 stories high. In Lingayen and Dagupan, it will be three stories high," said Mayor Amador Perez Jr. of Unlauna City.

"Pangasinan will be wiped out from the map," Perez said. "It's now a choice between power generation and the lives of more than two million Pangasinanese," he told the meeting of mayors and provincial officials with national government agencies.

"Let us move to one to decommission the dam," Perez said.

At the very least, San Roque's power-generating capability should be shut down, the mayors said at the meeting called in the wake of the devastating flooding on Oct. 9-10 triggered by Tropical Storm "Pepeng" and worsened by the release of water from the dam.

LA TRINIDAD, BENGUET—Rainwater Taylor's Grade 6 classroom at Pugin Elementary School hugged her when they saw her back in school on Monday.

They knew that Rainwater, 11, was still in grief. Her mother, Concepcion, was one of the 75 people who died in the massive landslide that buried a section of Little Kibangas in Barangay Pugin last Oct. 8.

"I am fine," she told the 10-11th.

But it was obvious that Rainwater longed for the company of her friends.

Over at Benguet National High School in Itanogay, Wapog, junior student Rosemarie Usana's classmates wondered where she was.

She did not report for class on Monday. Efforts to contact her on her mobile phone failed.

Usana, 25, is the last survivor after her family—parents Benito and Martina, and brothers Arnel, 10, and Joseph Arnel, 18—was buried in another landslide in Barangay Pugin that same Oct. 8 night.

Altogether, 33 people died in Pugin.

Seas, rising twice as fast, threaten world's cities

SHANGHAI—THIS CITY OF 20 million near the sea and grow into a modern downtown, with skyscrapers planning the skyline, said tidal flats fed by the nearby Yangtze River.

Now, Shanghai's future depends on finding ways to prevent the rising waters from encroaching it.

Global warming and melting polar ice sheets are raising sea levels worldwide, leaving tens of millions of people in coastal areas and on low-lying islands vulnerable to flooding and other weather-related catastrophes.

Shanghai, its altitude roughly 3 meters (10 feet) above sea level, is among dozens of big cities—including London, Miami, New York, New Orleans, Mumbai, Cairo, Amsterdam, Tokyo and Manila—threatened by sea levels that are now rising twice as fast as projected just a few years ago, responding from warmth and moisture.

Estimates of the scale and timing vary, but Stefan Rahmstorf, a respected expert at Germany's Potsdam Institute, expects a 1-meter rise in this century and up to 5 meters over the next 200 years.

Chinese cities are among the largest and most threatened. Their huge populations—the Yangtze River Delta region alone has about 80 million people—and their rapid growth in urban industrial, financial and shipping centers could mean massive losses from rising sea levels, experts say.

The sea is steadily advancing on Shanghai, sipping the city's freshwater supplies as it turns

GREENBELT ROBBERY

Cops probe mall security agency

and Doris C. Derosa

POICE YESTERDAY FLAGGED A private security agency under investigation for security breaches and mislabeled protective measures at shopping centers following a string of gun heists in one of the country's opulent malls that entered the public.

Initial investigation indicated that the agency—who indicated pieces of Baker watches worth a total of about P6 million from the stolen shop—belonged to a big-time gang linked to a series of major robberies, and possibly aided by another lawless group.

Security's solvency at the Greenbelt 3 mall in Makati City occurred just minutes after President Macapagal-Arroyo had left an Old Quez Day alone gathering at Ateneo College in San Lorenzo Village, a few blocks from where the shoot-out occurred.

"Whatever shortcomings were seen are being addressed, and this becomes more urgent as we near the Christmas season," Makati Mayor Arsenio B. Bay said.

"Makati will always be a safe place and we have agreed on measures that we need to implement to keep our residents, investors and visitors safe," Bay said.

Statements on the Role of Antibiotic Chemoprophylaxis against Leptospirosis

A. Pre-exposure Measures

1. The most effective preventive measure is the avoidance of high-risk exposure (i.e. wading in flood or contaminated water, contact with animal body fluids).
2. If high risk exposure is unavoidable, appropriate protective measures include wearing boots, goggles, overalls, and rubber gloves.
3. Pre-exposure antibiotic prophylaxis is NOT ROUTINELY RECOMMENDED. However, in those individuals who intend to visit highly endemic areas AND get exposed, pre-exposure prophylaxis may be considered.

Pre-exposure prophylaxis regimen for non-pregnant, non-lactating adult:

Doxycycline, 2 capsules of 100 mg/capsule once weekly, to begin 1 to 2 days before exposure and continuing through the period of exposure

Currently, there is NO recommended pre-exposure prophylaxis that is safe for pregnant and lactating women.

B. Post-Exposure Measures

1. Antibiotic prophylaxis in the prevention of leptospirosis is NOT 100% effective.
2. Factors that may affect prophylactic effectiveness include the quality of the drug, timing of intake of the antibiotic, drug interaction, the presence or absence of skin wounds, and degree and extent of exposure.
3. Antibiotic prophylaxis of leptospirosis may be achieved by administration of doxycycline depending on the risk category of exposure.

3.1. LOW RISK is defined as those individuals with a single history of wading in flood or contaminated water but with absence of wounds, cuts or open lesions of the skin.

Doxycycline (hydrochloride or hyclate) at 2 capsules of 100 mg/capsule single dose within 24 to 72 hours of exposure.

3.2. MODERATE RISK is defined as those individuals with a single history of wading in flood or contaminated water and the presence of wounds, cuts, or open lesions of the skin, OR accidental ingestion of contaminated water.

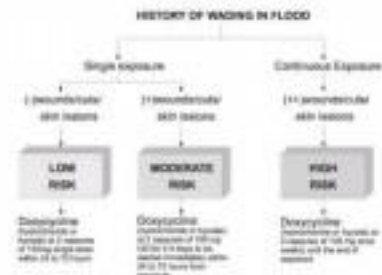

Doxycycline (hydrochloride or hyclate) at 2 capsules of 100 mg/capsule once a day for 3-5 days to be started immediately within 24 to 72 hours of exposure.

3.3. HIGH RISK is defined as those individuals with continuous exposure (i.e., those with more than a single exposure; those exposed for several days, e.g., residents in flooded areas, rescuers and relief workers). People who wade in flooded or contaminated water everyday - with or without wounds, cuts or open lesions of the skin; those who swim in flooded water and ingest contaminated water are also considered high risk.

Doxycycline (hydrochloride or hyclate) at 2 capsules of 100 mg/capsule once weekly until the end of exposure

4. The use of such prophylaxis REQUIRES PRIOR CONSULT WITH A PHYSICIAN. It should not be taken unless prescribed and fully explained by a physician, including common side-effects and contraindications.
5. SINCE ANTIBIOTIC PROPHYLAXIS IS NOT 100% EFFECTIVE, INDIVIDUALS SHOULD CONTINUE TO MONITOR THEMSELVES FOR FEVER AND OTHER FLU-LIKE SYMPTOMS.

ORATIO IMPERATA

AD REPELLENDAS TEMPESTATES ALIASQUE CALAMITATES
(Mandated Prayer for Deliverance from Typhoons and other Calamities)

To be prayed at every Mass right after Communion

Almighty Father, we raise our hearts to You in gratitude for the wonders of creation of which we are part, for Your providence that sustains us in our needs, and for Your wisdom that guides the course of the universe.

We acknowledge our sins against You and the rest of creation.
We have not been good stewards of Nature.
We have confused Your command to subdue the earth.

The environment is made to suffer our wrongdoing, and now we reap the harvest of our abuse and indifference.
Global warming is upon us. Typhoons, heavy rains, floods, drought, volcanic eruption, and other natural calamities, occur in increasing number and intensity.

We turn to You, our loving Father, and beg forgiveness for our sins.
We ask that we, our loved ones and our hard-earned possessions be spared from the threat of calamities, natural and man-made.
We beseech You to inspire us all to grow into responsible stewards of Your creation, and generous neighbors to those in need.
We ask this, with the intercession of our Blessed Mother, through Christ our Lord.

Amen.

HOTDOG ONSTICKS

Cooking up 25 years of Success

In cooking up a successful business venture, very few recipes involve adding patience, perseverance and love as secret ingredients to success. But one couple did just that to nurture and transform their dream business into a thriving and bustling brand name throughout the years - surviving hardships and trials to emerge as the household name Hotdog on Sticks.

1984 marked the darkest year in the country's history with the assassination of Senator Benigno Aquino, resulting in a rapidly deteriorating economy and a chaotic political landscape. Foreign investors had begun to take flight as exchange rates skyrocketed, and to many local businessmen, the times felt too uncertain, the first too hot to cook up any promising business opportunity.

Here and Amy, however, were a young couple full of hope and dreams, looking toward building a future together. But given the state the country was in, both knew that they would need more than just their salaries as employees in order to start their new family.

Not allowing the bleak reality of a country in turmoil to affect their optimism, the young couple decided to use part of the wedding money that they had saved up to finance a small venture. Their business recipe was plain and simple - answer the Filipino's penchant for food by selling simple hotdogs and barbecues on sticks.

So on the 20th of October 1984, the couple opened their business to the public, a bold decision that most experienced businessmen at that time would not make. Many of their friends were skeptical of their decision to lease a 4-square meter space at Horton Plaza in Ermita, Manila, thinking that selling hotdogs alone would not generate enough profit to cover all operating expenses. And for the first few weeks, this really seemed certain as the sales of their first Hotdog on Sticks stood registered only in mere nickels. The business appeared to be in trouble from the very start.

But undaunted, the two forged on, literally working their way up, personally manning the cash register during their off-hours of work and personally delivering the goods to their store. They carefully studied the progress of their business, using their love for each other as an added ingredient to their recipe, a stop-gap measure to bolster their during periods of disappointing sales results.

Thus defying the odds and discoveries, the store's sales began to steadily improve. Eventually Hotdog on Sticks became a lucrative business, allowing the couple to enjoy sales that rose from three to five figures consistently in the following months, so much so that by the time the couple's original wedding date passed, the money that they had invested in the store had exceeded the profits generated. Thus, Here and Amy were able to push through with their wedding plans, confident that the business that they had built on hope, dreams and love would continue to grow.

Gradually the business began to pick up, with Hotdog on Sticks weathering even more trials that scared off more established restaurant brands. The couple began to see the light at the end of the tunnel, as the profit from their hard work began to materialize.

Hotdog on Sticks success also gained the attention of several malls, including SM, Ayala, Robinsons and Gaisano, offering better leases on spaces - signaling the beginning of the growth of the Hotdog on Sticks brand. The couple also began to work on the business full time, nurturing its expansion through the years. Like culinary chefs, they began to streamline their recipe to success, adding even more ingredients, such as better designed stalls, more product variety and well-trained staff to bolster the brand's strengths.

The brand's long standing partnership with SM Mall's location Henry Sy also became an additional ingredient to the continuing success of Hotdog on Sticks. Like the couple, Henry Sy also took a huge risk building his SM North Edoz mall during the crisis years and valued greatly the trust and confidence given to him by his investors. Since Hotdog on Sticks was one of the first to establish its presence in the new mall, the Syson awarded those who took the risk with him by offering Hotdog on Sticks and the other founding tenants of SM North Edoz with first options in the other SM Malls that were built throughout the years. Thus, Hotdog on Sticks began to grow and establish a strong presence wherever one finds a SM Mall, expanding its store patterns to include mall shoppers and supermarket patrons.

Now, 25 years later, that small hotdog stall in Horton Plaza has grown into more than 150 branches all over the country. The logo and brand name of Hotdog on Sticks has become a household name in malls and supermarkets. Widely recognized by families, common office workers and even students, the store's branches have become a convenient stop-over for affordable snacks and quick lunches. The brand is now also a prominent feature in special events and even kiddie parties.

Adding more variety to Hotdog on Sticks' selection, the brand even partnered with international sausage manufacturers like the American brand Nathan's. Currently, Hotdog on Sticks' also offers products of Johnsonville Foods, the Wisconsin-based sausage producer touted as America's largest, specializing in making varieties of backyard and Italian sausages. Well-known and well-loved, the Johnsonville sausage products are sold in 16 NFL stadiums all over America and in 39 countries, including France, Canada, Mexico, Japan, Hongkong, China and now available in the Philippines through Hotdog on Sticks.

Add with the celebration of its 25th year, Here and Amy would like to unveil several new recipes to spice up their dream business with a virtual feast of opportunities in the challenging years ahead, not only for themselves but also for other small business owners and risk takers of heart.

Their newest store in the fourth quarter of 2009 comes with Big City, a casual dining version of Hotdog on Sticks, complete with seating and an expanded menu selection. The new brand introduces to the upscale market the unique dining pleasure that made Hotdog on Sticks such a resounding success. With venue spaces ranging from 20-50 square meters and seating for up to 30 people, Big City will allow casual diners to enjoy the favorite selection of Hotdog on Sticks variants, Johnsonville grilled sausage and grilled burger selections, meat of choice breakfasts and all-day breakfast fare. And with a home like Big City popping up in SM Cebu, Br people. Big City will allow casual diners to enjoy their favorite selection of Hotdog on Sticks variants, Johnsonville grilled sausage and grilled burger selections, fresh choices featuring pastas and all-day breakfast fare. And with a name like Big City popping up in SM Cebu, SM North Annex, Robinson's Umak, Mall of Asia and SM The Block, it would not be surprising to see the new brand become as big as the hotdog on sticks.

But the most exciting move to be announced by the couple is the opening of the business to cluster franchising. The new development truly proves that the Hotdog on Sticks recipe for success is ready to be deployed as a business system, with even neophyte investors and businessmen being able to duplicate and enjoy the benefits and profits of the highly successful brand with the guidance of its creators. The cluster franchising system also ensures that those who wish to jump on the Hotdog on Sticks bandwagon will be able to enjoy their own expansion opportunities since they will have the option to grow the business in their respective franchise cluster areas.

True meaning on sticks has much to celebrate about as it commemorates 25 years of serving delicious hotdogs to Filipinos all over the country.

US billionaire linked to Sri Lanka terror funding

RAJAPAKSA—A US-based hedge fund manager charged with the role of an insider trader was not investigated by US authorities for allegedly raising funds for a Sri Lanka separatist group. The Wall Street Journal reported that the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) people involved with the probe, the newspaper said, believed agents had uncovered documents showing that Rajapaksa, founder of the

Galileo Group, was among several wealthy Sri Lankans in the United States whose donations to a Washington-based charity made their way to the Liberation Tigers of Tamil Eelam. The LTTE, commonly known as the Tamil Tigers, fought a bloody separatist war against the government of Sri Lanka from 1996 until it was defeated last May. Rajapaksa, 52, was among six people arrested on Friday in what the Federal Reserve of the investigation says is the largest money-laundering case in US history. The case involves a network of banks, the paper noted. Federal prosecutors in New York charged Rajapaksa with securities fraud and conspiracy to commit securities fraud. Prosecutors also charged Rajapaksa with the risk of alleged conspiracy to raise $20 million in investments and to report said. Rajapaksa's New York-based Galileo fund has more than $1.7 billion in investments. Jim Winkler, a lawyer for Rajapaksa, said his client is innocent and will fight the charges, according to the paper. Winkler said Rajapaksa made charitable donations "to the extent" his funds destroyed by the tsunami that devastated Sri Lanka and other countries in 2004, and that he never interacted with the LTTE, the Journal said. As part of a separate criminal probe, which was led by the FBI in Brooklyn, New York, eight other people have pleaded guilty to attempting to provide material support to the LTTE, designated as a terrorist organization by the United States. The Journal noted. Prosecutors in the case did not allege that Rajapaksa and other donors knew their money was being used to fund the Tamil Tigers, according to the report. The documents in a federal criminal complaint filed in US District Court in New York's Southern District include allegations by federal agents that money donated to a US charity called Tamil Rehabilitation Organization, or TRF-USA, of Cambridge, Maryland, was funneled to the Tamil Tigers in support of the paper noted. Medical marijuana users in US given free pass

WASHINGTON—THE US Customs administration will not seek to arrest medical marijuana users and suppliers as long as they remain in state laws, under new guidance from the federal government. The Justice Department will, said director of the new policy in The Associated Press, saying prosecutors will be in a "good use of their time" to target people who sell or provide medical marijuana in state courts with no state laws.

The new policy is a significant departure from the strict administration, which argued it would continue to enforce federal export laws regardless of state laws.

Prosecutors must allow users of medical marijuana, which includes people in Alaska, California, Colorado, Hawaii, Maine, Maryland, Michigan, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont and Washington. California is unique among these for the widespread presence of dispensaries—businesses that sell marijuana and allow customers to use it. California also has several dispensaries in Nevada and Rhode Island and New Mexico are in the process of licensing dispensaries, according to the Marijuana Policy Project, a group that promotes the decriminalization of marijuana use.

Attorney General Eric Holder said in March that he wanted federal law enforcement officials to pursue those who risk lose federal and state law, but he has not been clear how that goal would be put into practice.

A three-page memo spelling out the policy is expected to be sent on Monday to federal prosecutors in the 14 states, and all state and local officials of the FBI and the Department of Justice. The memo, the officials said, recognizes that prosecutors have wide discretion in choosing which cases to pursue, and says it is not a goal of federal prosecutors to prosecute those who are without a doubt in compliance with state law. The officials urged on the basis of prosecutive discretion they were not authorized to discuss the legal position before a court.

"This is a major step forward," said Bruce Maltz, communications director for the Marijuana Policy Project. "This change in policy serves the federal government dramatically better respecting scientific and medical needs."

At the same time, the officials said, the government will continue to pursue those who are involved in large-scale distribution of marijuana in a way that is not a goal of federal prosecutors to pursue those who are without a doubt in compliance with state law. The officials urged on the basis of prosecutive discretion they were not authorized to discuss the legal position before a court.

White House signals delay in Afghan troop decision

WASHINGTON—The White House signaled on Sunday that President Barack Obama would postpone any decision on sending more troops to Afghanistan until disputed elections there had been completed and resulted in a government that could work with the United States. It is a sign of a shift in the White House's approach to Afghanistan, according to a senior administration official. The official said the White House is now looking for a way to send more troops to Afghanistan, but only if the government there is able to work with the United States. Sheriff calls balloon boy drama a hoax

Medicaid Advance pays tribute to Selfless Winners

We have recently heard a lot of amazing stories of heroic individuals and groups that have come together to help those in need. It is time to honor them. Medicaid Advance is proud to recognize the selfless acts of those who have helped others in need.

A STORY THAT TRANSFIXED millions of television viewers last week—about a child trapped aboard a spaceship-like balloon as it floated uncontrollably across the Colorado landscape—was connected by the boy's parents to gain publicity, law enforcement officials said on Sunday.

"They put us in a very good show for us, and we thought it," Sheriff Jim Atkinson of Larimer County said in a news conference on Sunday morning.

Calling the episode an elaborate hoax, Atkinson said he reported to the felony charges against the parents—Richard Hovey and his wife, Margaret—who claimed on Tuesday that their 5-year-old son, Falcon, had climbed aboard the homemade balloon before it ascended thousands of feet into the sky above Fort Collins, Colo.

The report prompted a large-scale aerial and ground pursuit, but the authorities learned hours later that Falcon had never left the ground. The narrative, the sheriff said, FALCON Hovey was a star in reality television markets.

"The allegation of a hoax capped days of bizarre operations about the home-bound, and in particular about Richard Hovey, who fashioned himself a scientist and celebrity who had struggled to gain attention for his show ideas.

Neighbors and former colleagues of Hovey described a man eager for fame, but troubled by an explosive temper and a wild imagination. A production company that had been developing a show about the Hoveys—who had previously acted in two episodes of "Wife Swap" on ABC—said it was no longer working with the family, but did not say why.

Richard and Margaret Hovey had not been arrested as of Sunday evening, but Atkinson said that among the charges being considered were those involving conspiracy between the husband and the wife to commit a crime, contributing to the delinquency of a minor, and attempts to influence a public action. The last carries a possible prison term of six years. The charges include a felony conviction, filing a false report, and

The sheriff said his confidence was based on separate interviews of the Hoveys and their three children, as well as on members of their company, a small records and document store in their home. He said the decision to fly a balloon and tell the nation that Falcon was aboard was made two weeks ago.

Thousands of foreclosed in US go to homeless shelters

CLEVELAND—GROWING NUMBERS OF Americans who have lost houses in foreclosure are finding no better shelter, according to social service groups and a recent report by coalition of housing advocates.

Only three years ago, foreclosure was rarely a factor in home prices because of the mortgage crisis. But among the homeless people who were seeking shelter, the report said, the number of people who were seeking shelter had increased by 30 percent in the last year, according to "Homelessness in the United States 2006," a survey produced by the National Coalition for the Homeless and other advocacy groups.

In the Midwest, homelessness played a role in 15 percent of newly homeless people, according to the survey, reflecting soaring rates of unemployment. Ohio's reported 16.6 percent in August—and aggressive lending to people with damaged credit.

Similar increases have been seen at shelters in California, Michigan and Illinois, where a combination of joblessness and the mortgage crisis has generated unusually severe rates of homelessness.

Many people who become homeless because of foreclosure had been low-income earners whose landlords stopped making their mortgage payments, leaving them scrambling for new housing with little notice and no time savings, according to the survey and interviews with shelter.

But in recent months, there has been a visible increase in the number of homeless individuals showing up at shelters.

"These families never needed help before," said Larry Hays, executive director of the City of Chicago's Homeless Services. "They haven't a clue about where to go, and they have all been evicted from their homes. They don't even know where to go, what to ask for."

There will be more to go to and more to ask for, though, as the number of homeless individuals continues to rise. The survey found that many of the homeless are looking for shelter for the first time, meaning that the number of homeless is growing. But as unemployment grows, many more will be added.

Thailand threatens to delay Asean pact over rice

RP offer deemed unacceptable

MANILA, ABC-NEWS — THAILAND threatened to delay its Asean rice trade agreement unless it can get a "fair deal" on tariff from the Philippines, the world's largest buyer of the food staple. The officials said yesterday.

The 10 members of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (Asean), of which Thailand and the Philippines are members, are due to ratify an Asean Trade in Goods Agreement (ATIGA) in their turn in Thailand this week. The pact is among the steps that Asean, with a combined population of 630 million, is taking toward becoming an ASEAN free zone.

Thailand will make its final proposal at the Asean summit meeting this weekend that it would not ratify the Asean pact if it cannot get fair deals from the Philippines on the rice issue, a senior Commerce Ministry official said.

The Commerce Minister Brima Nisakorn was quoted as saying in a local newspaper that Thailand could not accept the Philippines' offer to incorporate rice in delay in negotiating tariff on rice imports.

Thailand has been in a dispute with the Philippines over rice imports since 2005, saying the current tariff is too low.

According to the Asean Free Trade Pact, Philippine rice imports will be reduced to 20 percent from 40 percent by Jan. 5, 2010.

But Manila insists that rice is classified under a "highly sensitive list" that allows sufficient stay at 10 percent.

The Philippines is preparing to reject Thailand's offer of 10,000 tons of tariff-free rice to compensate for not meeting the tariff target, while Thailand has demanded 200,000 tons, another senior commerce ministry official said.

Trade ministers from the two countries used to agree under the dispute during the Asean summit this weekend at Thailand's leadership of the 10th Asean summit.

Thailand, the world's largest rice exporter, exported 12 million tons of rice in 2008, of which 300,000 tons went to the Philippines, the world's largest rice importer. Thailand's commerce minister said it would not accept the Philippines' offer to incorporate rice in delay in negotiating tariff on rice imports.

3rd Project Management Professional® Review Program

January 29 - February 27, 2010

Testimonials

We had the right materials and practice test in preparation for the exam. We just had to establish our deep understanding of the program and PMBOK to address the questions and concepts asked. Having us to learn to take the exam played a vital role because it helped us to find that I had the same right after the PM® Review course which information was still fresh in my mind. Thanks to Adam and Mark who were good Project Management Instructors!

I had the PM® Review Program with Robert CCEP model for it doesn't only focus on one reference book but also on other reference materials valuable for preparing you for the PM® Exam. The practice test after every session really helped a lot as they immediately gauge the understanding of each participant. If you're really serious about the review program and do home study, in just two weeks, you will surely pass the PM® Exam!

CAC SETS UP CENTRAL SERVICE PROCESSING CENTER FOR FLOOD-DAMAGED VEHICLES

Offers 50% discount on cost of parts; P50K discount on purchase of new Kia vehicles

Columbian Autocar Corporation (CAC), authorized distributor of Kia vehicles in the Philippines, has teamed up with its Korean principal, Kia Motors Corporation, in setting up a Central Service Processing Center (CSPC) to serve as clearing house and dispatch center to facilitate the immediate repair of flood-damaged Kia vehicles.

The CSPC is housed at 150 E. Rodriguez Jr. Ave., Urdaneta City and is open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday to Saturday, to process and refer all flood-damaged Kia vehicles to the nearest authorized Kia service center. Areas covered include Metro Manila and the surrounding flood-affected areas. The service hotline are: (0922-4244833), (0923-4244831) and (02) 568-4142.

The setting up of the CSPC is only one in a series of emergency response moves that CAC has done to assist Kia car owners, especially those whose vehicles have been severely damaged by the floods spawned by Typhoon Ondoy, to cope with the current situation. The other measures include the 50% discount offer on the cost of Kia parts and the P50,000 off on the price tag for the purchase of a new Kia unit. As a corollary offer, a special fund subsidy is offered to Kia vehicle owners who will trade up their old Kia cars for a brand new unit.

Felix J. Mablog Jr., president and COO of CAC said that the current emergency has already caused untold suffering and misery to countless thousands who have been rendered homeless and hungry, a great number of them Kia owners, and it is only human to assist and help them cope.

"We cannot add more to the pain, injury or depression the typhoon has caused our motoring public and customers. Kia truly cares and offering this assistance to Kia vehicle owners by way of discounts and immediate emergency vehicle repair is a way of mitigating the unfortunate turn of events," Mablog says. "We are ready to extend help the way we know best, and that is to render damaged Kia vehicles serviceable and mobile again," he adds.

A reimbursable towing service fee not exceeding P2,000 will be extended to Kia owners with damaged vehicles from their place of origin up to the Kia authorized service shop. Engine oil filter and air cleaner element will also be given free to the first 100 Kia owners of each carline (Kia model 2009-2008) shops, who bring their flood-damaged cars for servicing at Kia's authorized service shops.

Participating Kia Service shops include: Alabang, Congressional, Fairview, Mandulog, Marikina, New Manila, Pasig, Pasig, Quezon Ave., Pampanga, Sta. Tomas and Cebu.

Gov't urged to tap rice reserve

By Amy R. Bernabe

FARMERS AND CIVIL SOCIETY GROUPS yesterday urged the government to tap the rice reserve to help farmers (FARMERS) to secure supply as a stable price.

In a statement, the World and Asian Farmers (WAF) said it has been pushing for the activation of the Association of South East Asian Nations (ASEAN) rice reserve mechanism since the launch of the rice crisis in 2008. The groups are leading for its activation as the agenda of the upcoming Asian Ministerial Agriculture and Forestry Meeting in November.

Thailand is also one of the Asian rice hub country in the Southeast in the light of its columbine and devastation that had befallen the region. Indonesia recently got hit by a devastating earthquake along the same area.

The ASEAN rice reserve project, which began in 2004, is meant to help rice deficit and calamity-prone countries to have immediate access to rice when there is calamity.

This is the same rice reserve that the Philippines had planned to tap as the height of the global rice crisis in 2008.

Under the ASEAN rice reserve, Asian countries have pledged certain volumes of rice that may be tapped by other Asian countries in case of emergency.

ONCE AGAIN, JERRY SIBAL makes us proud. The world-renowned, New York-based designer started his creative profession with Opus's favorite designer, Francis Jarama. The Manila-born artist eventually grew up his company, Design Fusion, with business partner Edwin Jones. He proved his worth as a designer of monumental settings. His clients include top international corporations, private individuals, celebrities and cultural entities. The recent launch of his latest coffee table book, "An Event to Remember: Designing Special

Six films compete in Cinemanila's Digital Lokal

A scene from "Dakong"

By Reynold Son Diego Jr.

A SEEDY BAG, A BUS MOTORING from Manila to Bicol. The last of a poor flick. Vigil during Munkel War II. The faded remains of Pangasinan, pre-Doping. The preceptor between youth and adulthood in Pasa-pasa.

There are two scenes in Cinemanila's Digital Lokal competition.

Joe Rial's "Tag-Balik" produced by artist Joel Torres and Francis Llanza, is described as "a love story and social commentary" by the director.

"We are not the main actors inside a story," he noted. "Everyone is there. From the script and powerful to the sensitive and delicate."

But assigned to capture the actual experience of the happening in the film. "The goal is to have a relaxing and interesting experience."

But critics are not happy. Quizon, Ryan Espinosa and Gerry Gato are "young." They all played in their films and experienced. The film is a social gauge and moment in time. A story of a relationship that has been converted into a story.

Quizon immediately Christopher Quizon's "Tag-Balik" managed to transcend the genre. But before it was dominated by the focus on the "Tag-Balik" story.
